Main Screen

All grades on this screen and throughout this site come directly from teachers' gradebooks. As teachers update their gradebooks, the changes appear immediately on this site. If any grades for a class appear to be out of date or incorrect, check with the teacher.

To view individual class reports, follow steps 1, 2, 3 below using the dropdown menus, then click the button. There are a number of reports listed. One of the most informative reports is the Class Grades Report, which shows individual class assignments and grades. Since this report includes a variety of information with codes, some explanation is provided on the back of this page.

Class Grades Report

Report Information

The Class Grades Report for a class shows every assignment and grade that the teacher entered for a student. Some explanation is needed for several of the columns in this report.

- Due Date – This column may be blank. It's up to the individual teacher to decide whether or not to include due dates for assignments in their grade books.
- Category – If you see only one category called "Assignments", then that teacher does not categorize assignments. (Ex: homework, classwork, test, quiz)
- % Grade – Several special codes are used in this column:
 - Dash (-). A dash means one of the following:
 1. The student did not yet turn in the assignment.
 2. The assignment was turned in, but has not yet been graded.
 3. The assignment was added to the teacher's grade book, but not yet assigned to the class.
 - X – The student was exempted from the assignment.
 - Z – The assignment was not turned in and the student earned a zero.
- Max – This column show how many points the assignment was worth.

Communication to Parents/Students

There are three methods for teachers to communicate with parents/students using the Class Grades Report. They can inform parents/students of Upcoming Assignments, Classwide Notes, and Individual Student Notes.

Upcoming Assignments - Look at the bottom of the assignment list. Assignments with dashes instead of grades that have a due date beyond today's date are upcoming assignments. Students who are absent or on vacation can use this report to see the work that they'll need to make up.

Classwide Notes – A teacher may use the last assignment in the assignment list to communicate a note to the entire class.

Individual Student Notes – Notes from a teacher to an individual student will appear in a blue box at the very bottom of the Class Grades Report.
